How to improve Education in Cambodia

• Government (MoEYS)
• Family
• Teacher
• Student
The government should

• Deduct all kind of the corruptions in Cambodia education, rest up more salary for the teachers.
• MOEYs reinforce all part of Education (Private & public school / student & teacher).
• Should set the schools up in all the rural areas.
• Expand the education advertisement system to be wide.
• Show people about the advantages of education.
Family

● Executive Summary

Thirty years of research confirms that family involvement is a powerful influence on children's achievement in school (Eagle, 1989; Henderson & Berla, 1994; U.S. Department of Education, 1994; Ziegler, 1987). When families are involved in their children's education, children earn higher grades and receive higher scores on tests, attend school more regularly, complete more homework, demonstrate more positive attitudes and behaviors, graduate from high school at higher rates, and are more likely to enroll in higher education than students with less involved families. For these reasons, increasing family involvement in the education of their children is an important goal for schools, particularly those serving low-income and other students at risk of failure. Increasing family involvement in children's education is also an important goal of Title I of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act (ESEA)¹, which is designed to enable schools to provide opportunities for low-income and low-achieving children to acquire knowledge and skills contained in challenging standards developed for all children. Title I is the largest federal program supporting elementary and secondary education.
The family should

- Send their children to the school.
- Observe their children’s studying.
- Explain their children about education advantages.
- Reinforce the children in their studying.
- Giving good advices relevant to education.
- Create closely communication with the school.
- Motivation
Teacher
• Executive Summary

A teacher's role involves more than simply standing in front of a classroom and lecturing. In fact, even though a teacher spends the majority of the day in the classroom, the actual teaching component is only part of the job. An effective teacher understands that teaching involves wearing multiple hats to ensure that the school day runs smoothly and all students receive a quality education.
The teacher should

- Enough ability
- Responsibility
- Research
- Equipment
- Transparency
- Execute themselves to be sample person.
- Have welfare morality
- Know how to control the students
- Know how to send their knowledge to the students successfully.
The students

There are as many different study environments as there are students. Some students cannot study when it is really quiet, because then any sound at all attracts their attention. Some students need the quiet because they cannot "tune out" noises, so what is conducive to one is not necessarily conducive to another. Some students have to create a "box" to try and screen out anything their eyes might see, because they are very distracted by movement. Others need a busy environment so that there are no isolated movements to attract their attention.
The students should

• Try to study hard.
• Pay attention while learning.
• Brave to ask or share the ideas.
• Obey the rule of the school
• Have good attitude
• Help other students
• Help parent’s works
• Execute themselves to be good will person.
• Try to develop the family, society, and country.
• Love school & school property
