NATIONAL REPORT ON THE IMPLEMENTATION OF THE 1970 CONVENTION ON THE MEANS OF PROHIBITING AND PREVENTING THE ILLICIT IMPORT, EXPORT AND TRANSFER OF OWNERSHIP OF CULTURAL PROPERTY

2011 – 2015
I. Information on the implementation of the UNESCO Convention of 1970 (with reference to its provisions)

1. Ratification of the Convention

(a) Has this Convention already been ratified?
   Yes

(b) If not, please indicate, where applicable:
   - the stage of the ratification process reached by the State concerned (close to ratification, under way, actively under preparation, not considering ratification in the short, medium or long term);
   - obstacles or difficulties encountered in completing the ratification process (whether legal, political or practical) and the means of overcoming them;
   - the extent to which UNESCO can assist in completing the process?

2. Implementation in the national legal system and in the organization of services

(a) Give the references of the principal national regulations adopted in order to implement the 1970 Convention?
   i. Antiquities Act, 1975 (Act VII of 1976). (An Act to repeal and re-enact the law relating to the preservation and protection of antiquities)
   ii. Gazette Notification No. SRO 449/(i) 1/76 dated 12th May, 1976 prohibiting movement of antiquities in certain specified areas for five years.
   vii. At present “The Antiquities Act, 1975” is prevailing (which repeals Ancient Monuments Preservation Act VII of 1904 and Antiquities Act, 1968). The Antiquities Act, 1975 was passed by the Parliament of Pakistan, which repeals and re-enacts the laws relating to the prevention and protection of antiquities. As per provisions under Section 26 of the Antiquities Act, 1975, export of antiquities for the purpose of sale is not allowed. Only temporary export of antiquities to other countries is allowed which is for the purpose of treatment, and exhibitions, under the rules called as “Export of Antiquities Rules, 1979”. The export of antiquities is also prohibited under section 16 of the customs Act, 1969 (IV of 1969).

(b) A definition of “cultural property” agreeing with the definition proposed by the 1970 Convention is important in order to increase the effectiveness of international cooperation. State what definition is used by the national laws of the country concerned.

   The definition of “Cultural Property” is provided in Antiquities Act, 1975, the said definition is in accordance with the 1970 Convention.

(c) Have specialized units been established in order to prevent and combat trafficking and ensure international cooperation for the protection of cultural heritage? Within the Heritage Department? In other government departments (police, customs)?
Yes, After the ratification of UNESCO Convention on the “Means of Prohibiting and Preventing the illicit Import, Export and Transfer of Ownership of Cultural Property, 1970” by Pakistan in 1981, the Department of Archaeology and Museums established Special Cells/Branches which are known as Antiquities Trade Control Branches located at Department of Archaeology and Museums, Islamabad and all the four Provincial Headquarters at Lahore, Peshawar, Quetta and Hyderabad with the specific purpose to control illicit trade in antiquities.

(d) Describe briefly the administrative coordination of the activities of these specialized units, especially with the police and customs authorities.

These units check and control the illegal activities in the country and have close coordination with the Pakistan Customs, Police, Border Security etc.

(e) Are working meetings held to enable police officers, customs officials and ministerial representatives to meet and coordinate their activities?

Yes, as and when required meetings are held for better coordination between the concerned agencies.

3. Inventories and identification

(a) State briefly the extent to which inventories provide for the risks of misappropriation and theft.

All museums in Pakistan have prepared inventories of the Cultural Property. All the protected sites and monuments have been inventoried under the Antiquities Act, 1975 by the Department of Archaeology and Museums, Government of Pakistan.

(b) Specify the degree of precision, at the national level, of the definition of “cultural property” covered by international conventions (see above I.2(b)). State whether “national treasures” are identified in an official, tentative or exhaustive list.

Almost all protected cultural property is inventoried

(c) To what extent is the Object ID standard used? Is the standard adapted to the State’s needs?

All basic information about the objects of cultural property are inventoried and Object ID standards are used.

(d) Are there systems to combat theft and to train museum staff and have specific measures been adopted for libraries, archival and manuscript repositories, and any specialized units established to monitor them?

Department of Archaeology and Museums, Government of Pakistan within its Financial Resources is doing its level best to control on looting/pillaging of archaeological and ethnological objects. However, there are many challenges being faced by the Department of Archaeology such as; limited financial resources, technical and professionals staff as well as lack of mechanism for proper coordination between the relevant agencies i.e. Police and Customs Authorities.

For the proper protection of cultural property against illicit trafficking specific provisions have been provided under the Antiquities Act, 1975 and these rules are exercised by the Department of Archaeology and Museums with the specialized services and cooperation of Magistrates/Judges, Police Department as well as Custom Authorities vide their Customs Act, 1969 which is integrated with the Antiquities Act 1975. There are specific provisions under Customs Act, 1969 for the protection of cultural property against illicit trafficking. During the last 10 years total 13801 Antiquities have been saved from smuggling at different exit points of the country with the active help of Pakistan Customs and Police Department.

The Customs Authorities are empowered to control illicit trade in antiquities or their transfer vide their Custom Act, 1969 as well as Antiquities Act, 1975 of Department of Archaeology and Museums, Government of Pakistan. Similarly, the Police Authorities are also empowered to control on illicit trade in antiquities. It is a matter of satisfaction that these Departments are helping the Department of Archaeology and Museums in the retrieval of antiquities from the smugglers and due to vigilance of the Customs Authorities at International exit points several consignment of antiquities which were being exported unlawfully have been confiscated.

4. Archaeological excavations

(a) Summarize the basic principles of the regulations on archaeological excavations and on the monitoring of excavations in force in the country.

All excavations are carried out under the Antiquities Act, 1975 and Archaeological Exploration and Excavation Rule, 1978. Under well-planned schemes, extensive archaeological exploration in the different areas of Pakistan in addition to regular excavation / exploration programme as well as salvage operations at the potential sites have been started. The main thrust of these schemes, is to check the archaeological wealth of the country, retrieve and rescue whatever is possible for proper preservation and maintenance of the cultural heritage of Pakistan.

(b) Is there a recurrent problem of illegal excavations? If so, what are the reasons and when did it begin? What steps have been taken to combat this scourge?

Yes, special Cells/Branches have been established which are known as Antiquities Trade Control Branches located at Department of Archaeology and Museums and all the four Provincial Headquarters with the specific purpose to control illicit trade in antiquities. SO for a large number of antiquities have been confiscated. These branches also take due notice of the activities of the antique dealers and illegal diggers.

5. Monitoring of the export and import of cultural property

(a) Give an estimate of the scale of the illicit export or import of cultural property. Are up-to-date statistics compiled on the theft of cultural property?

What type of obstacles are they (administrative, legal or political) and why do they arise (legal loopholes, unwillingness by importing countries, lack of international cooperation, etc.)?

(f) If the country has succeeded in securing the restitution of a stolen cultural object, describe the circumstances and state whether that involved legal proceedings, arbitration or alternative dispute resolution.

Yes, Pakistan has succeeded in securing the restitution of illicitly exported cultural property. However in the case of United States the Government of Pakistan shall has to sign a bilateral agreement for restitution of cultural property of Pakistan illicitly exported to United States.
6. System for trade-in, acquisition, ownership and transfer of cultural property

(a) Give a brief description of the cultural goods market in the country (financial volume of the market, number and turnover of auction houses including via the Internet). As Pakistan is not a market nation for cultural goods therefore, there are no markets or auction houses of cultural goods in Pakistan.

(b) What are the main rules governing trade in cultural goods? Are control measures in place for such trade (maintenance of a police register), in particular through the Internet (for example, reference to the basic measures proposed by UNESCO, INTERPOL and ICOM)?

Yes, Dealing in Antiquities Rules 1989 framed under Antiquities Act 1975 provides effective control on trade of cultural goods. Under these rules all dealers of cultural goods are required to maintain a register of all purchases and sales and to provide all data to the Government for verification.

(c) Do measures exist to control the acquisition of cultural property (for example, mechanisms to prevent museums and similar institutions from acquiring cultural property exported illegally from another State)?

Yes, Acquisition of Antiquities Rules 1989 framed under Antiquities Act 1975 provide mechanism to prevent museums and similar institutions from acquiring cultural property exported illegally from another state.

(d) Specify the existing legal system concerning ownership of cultural property:

- Is the principle of inalienability applied to cultural items in national collections and objects originating in heritage sites?

Yes, Section 13 A and 26 of the Antiquities Act 1975 and Export of Antiquities Rules 1979 provides this principle and no cultural good of Pakistan origin can be exported to other countries permanently.

- What is the status of yet unfound cultural objects, of cultural items found by chance and archaeological artefacts found during legal or illegal excavations?

Section 13 A of the Antiquities Act 1975 provides that all buried antiquities (Archaeological material) is the property of the Government of Pakistan.

- Are there any due diligence requirements in place?

Yes

- What are the rules governing the search of provenance?

Our National law i.e. Antiquities Act 1975 and rules framed under this Act.

(e) Are there special rules on the transfer of title deeds in respect of cultural property? If so, please summarize their content.

There is no such special rule.

7. Bilateral agreements

(a) List the bilateral agreements concluded with other countries on the import, export and return of cultural property and comment briefly on their results.

Signing of a bilateral agreement with the United States is under process.

(b) What conditions are set by the importing country with regard to the admissibility of requests for restitution from a country of origin?

To sign a bilateral agreement

(c) Apart from these agreements, is there administrative aid or any other type of cooperation with neighbouring countries, particularly in respect of police and customs services?

Yes. Customs Intelligence Department provides such

II. Code of ethics, awareness raising and education

Ethical standards
(a) Are the UNESCO International Code of Ethics for Dealers in Cultural Property and that of ICOM for museums known to the professionals concerned (in particular, curators, antique dealers, merchants and collectors)? How is their observance checked?

ICOM's Code of Ethics are followed by all museum professionals; ICOM's Code of Ethics are included in the curriculum of Museology at university level. However, there are no registered antique dealers, merchants and collectors.

Awareness raising and education

(b) Are the “One hundred missing objects” series and the ICOM Red Lists disseminated and read?

Yes

(c) Briefly describe activities carried out to raise the awareness of the authorities and educate the public, children in particular, regarding the serious damage that can be caused by illegal excavations, theft of cultural property and illegal export. How far can UNESCO contribute to these activities?

In order to raise awareness workshops are arranged at institutional level, lectures are delivered in the universities and colleges, archaeology as a subject has been introduced in universities and at college level. Lessons on history and cultural heritage are included in the school curricula. UNESCO collaborates with the local concerned institutions for arranging workshops on cultural heritage and helps in preservation and promotion of the World Heritage sites. UNESCO Office also arrange events and programmes to raise awareness about the cultural heritage.

III. Cooperation with other international and regional agencies

Police

(a) What is the state of national cooperation with INTERPOL? What specialized police services can heritage officials call on for enquiries, legal proceedings and punitive measures?

Federal Investigation Agency (FIA) has liaison with INTERPOL. There is no special police to deal with the cultural heritage cases, however, FIA and Police Department are called for enquiries. Legal proceedings and punitive measures are taken under provisions of the Antiquities Act 1975 and Customs Act 1969.
