
Driving the GCED agenda forward: Mobilizing the voices of the youth

28 January 2015
Piyali Sarkar Debnath
UNESCO MGIEP
Mahatma Gandhi Institute of Education for Peace and Sustainable Development
Glimpses from two recent surveys

Young India Says 'Yes' to Military Rule, 'No' to Inter-Religious Mingling: An India based Survey
YOUth Speak

• A pilot survey- responses from 126 countries

• One interesting observation - curricula was not making a dent: i.e. content (covering peace, justice, human rights etc.) was not making a significant difference to the responses of youth
Focus area for youth - post 2015

Focus more on

• Critical thinking
• Creativity
• Cooperation and collaboration

through

Innovative pedagogies
Enabling Youth to lead social change and transformation in education

YOUTH CENTERED
- Strengthening curricula to embed GCED in mainstream subjects
- Developing Innovations in pedagogies of learning - eg: Gaming
- Fostering youth leadership - on transforming self & society eg: Young Leaders program
- Creating spaces to facilitate dialogue amongst youth eg: Campus programmes; exchange programme

YOUTH-LED
- Mobilizing youth voices through media, especially social media
- youth-led social initiatives/enterprises
- Creating a global inclusive youth platform (online and offline)-network of networks-connect/learn/share-reaching the unreached eg. YESPeace Network
- Strengthening Collaboration and Partnership