

In Latin America,
children whose mothers
have some secondary schooling remain in school for two to three more years
than children
of mothers
with less
schooling.

(Inter-American
Development Bank)

