How to get to the Workshop

The Workshop On Earthquake Early Warning System: Applications to the Ibero-Maghrebian Region will be celebrated at the Sala de Grados (first floor), Faculty of Physics of the Complutense University, in Madrid (see map 1).

The best way to arrive to the Faculty is using the subway. You should arrive to the “Ciudad Universitaria” station (Line 6, the grey one, see map 2). The Faculty is ten minutes from the subway station. Ticket price is between 1.50 to 2.00 euros (bus or subway. Special price for 10 tickets is 12.20 euros)

If you want to go walking...
As soon as you get out of the subway station you should follow the street in the same direction as the traffic flow until you reach a cross-road. You must then go straight forward, passing by the “Facultad de Biología” (a red building) and the “Facultad de Geología” (a tall grey building), at your right. Soon you will reach a garden. The “Facultad de Físicas” is located behind the garden. It has two white astronomic cupolas on the top, so it is easy to recognize.

If you want to go by bus...
As soon as you get out of the subway station you will see a bus stop. You should take the bus (lines G or 82 or U), which will take you directly to the “Facultad de Físicas” (Faculty of Physics). After you pass entirely the Botanic Garden you will see the “Facultad de Biología” (a red building) and the “Facultad de Geología” (a tall grey building), at your right. You should get off the bus at the next bus stop. The Faculty of Physics is at the left of the garden. It has two white astronomic cupolas on the top, so it is easy to recognize.
